SCHOOL REPORT.

Another year and the report of our schools confronts us. On the whole the year has been very successful. The question of getting good teachers is a lottery, the best of results cannot be expected when a small amount of money is paid. Our one theme is, and has been: More money, better teachers. Pay according to the number of scholars and amount of work required.

Here is an arithmetical problem: Take our school treasurer's report, see how much each of our teachers receives for the school year, remembering $2 and $3 must be paid for board. How much can a good, bright and capable teacher save in a year?

That is why we are obliged to change teachers so often. They demand better wages in order to live. Kindly remember this when the question of "school money" is brought up March 14th. A uniformity of books has been made and we think the teachers and children have worked together for good.

The grammar school in the spring was taught by Miss Kate G. Davis. In the fall it was in charge of a fine instructor, Miss Maud F. Weeks, who worked faithfully and well, bringing her school up to a higher standard than it has ever before attained.

Another year the primary school has been under the charge of Miss Myrtie L. Bickford. Satisfaction was expected and it was given.

The spring term at the Hawkins school was taught by Miss Ethel Lawrence. In the fall we were fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. Fred K. Cloutman, who sees in the children (and makes them see it, too,) something beside the general routine of school duties. This school was badly broken by sickness, making it seem, perhaps, that good results were not attained, yet Mrs. Cloutman is one of our best teachers.

The Town House school in the spring was taught by Miss Claudine Gibson. Miss Gibson left us to attend the Normal school, where she felt she could have better training.

Miss Lucy M. Smith taught in the fall. Miss Smith's ability as a teacher is far above the average. The last six weeks were substituted by Mrs. Mabel Clark.

Mrs. Delia Kelley taught at the Cram school in the spring, every child being on the roll of honor. Miss Elsie G. Lamont came in the fall. A very bright, interesting teacher.

The scholars were made to think for themselves and the quick minds of these little folks responded quickly.
